HAWAIIAN GAZETTE

PUBLISHED AND EDITED BY

T. CRAWFORD MACDOWELL.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1879. HER Majesty returned by the steamer Likelike on Sunday morning last, from her trip to the Windward Islands.

Mr. J. M. Macdonald, late of Honolulu, writes us from Scotland that he would leave London, England, for South Africa about the 26th of April; and be promises to write a series of letters descriptive of that interesting part of the world. These letters, when received, will be duly published in the GAZETTE. The effects of the present war with the Zulus upon the South African colonies of Great Britain, and descriptive sketches of the varied tribes, the political and social condition of the inhabitants, and their commercial and agricultural resources will, probably, be the chief aim and matter of Mr. Macdonald's communi-

Ten Dollar Certificates.

The United States Treasury Department is issuing ten dollar Treasury certificates under a recent act of Congress. These certificates bear interest at the rate of one-eighth of one per cent, per annum, and will pass from hand o hand like bank notes and be a safe and convenient as well as a very desirable currency. The rate of interest is so low that the money sharks and bankers will not care to gather them up, and consequently they will be suffered to circulate among the poorer classes. We regard this new arrangement for a safe, convenient and sound national paper currency, guaranteed by the Government of the United States, as a step in the right direction, because it is in the interest of the working classes, for whose benefit there has been but little legislation in Congress or in the States for many

District of South Robals, Island of Hawall, vice John The intelligence of the people of the United States is such now-a-days, that legislators are compelled to respect the opinions and interests of the working people.

Canada and Alaska.

We learn from our Eastern exchanges that in the House of Commons of the Canadian Dominion, sitting at Ottawa, on the 11th of March last, Mr. Decosmos moved an address be prepared to the Governor-General, asking that the Treaty of 1825, between Russia and British Columbia, be inquired into, with a view to ascertain whether or not, by the Convention of 1825 alluded to, and the subsequent sale of the Territory of Alaska to the United States, by the Convention of Washington in 1871, only the Yucon, Porcupine and Stikeen Rivers were included in the right of way of the United States.

Sir John MacDonald said "there were two opinions on the point. Montague Barnard, a member of the Commission, who was perhaps the best international lawyer in England, and Lord Tenterden, now Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who perhaps knew more about all the treaties that England ever entered into than any other man on earth, united in the opinion that by the transfer of Alaska to the United States these rights were destroyed."

If this position be correct, we do not see ting her finger in to make way for future difficulty between the peoples and Governments of Canada and British Columbia about the fur man who has this railroad in hand is a sufficient trade in Alaska. The fur and fish trade of the ing her finger in to make way for future diffi-Alaskan Territory is of much more importance than was generally supposed, as we proved by an article published in the GAZETTE a few weeks ago, taken from the official statistics of the Territory of Alaska as furnished by the United States Treasury Department, and hence the anxiety of certain parties in the Dominion to find out whether there is a chance of elbowing Uncle Sam out of a portion of the trade of Alaska. The inquiry made by Mr. Decosmos' motion, and the reply of Sir John MacDonald, the Premier of the Dominion of Canada, has sufficed to settle for all future time all grounds for controversy on this subject, and therefore it is well it was made, because it gives information not only to the Canadians and Alaskans, but to all the world, that the rights acquired by the United States by the purchase from Russia of Alaska confers upon the U.S. the exclusive jurisdiction and ownership of the whole territory included in the purchase, This information is alike interesting to this Kingdom, inasmuch as our people have now, as well as for all future time, direct intercourse with Alaska, in the way of trade and commercial inter-communication.

Paying Interest.

There is no greater hindrance to the prosperity of a nation or an individual than paying interest on borrowed money. If a nation is largely in debt its people are taxed to raise the means to liquidate the interest on the In debt, and consequently to that extent are compelled to deduct from their earnings just so much as each individual's quota may be, to be handed to the tax collector to be applied to satisfy the demands of the money-lender. It has always been held as of doubtful propriety. by political economists, the practice of individuals borrowing money to carry on enterhas week while on a tour of inspection was mabbed at Haskin and Jambioi. Troops had to be called out in themselves. Interest never sleeps. It is In protest him. On his arrival at the confines of flares he was met by several thousand people, who throusened his life and forced him to return to Jam him. The Eassan commander there ead that he could not guarantee his safety, because the troops were not anthonized to use their arms against the people. Schemit returned to Philippolis, whereupon Gen Statypins, Guscener of Roumella, with Schmidt and one of the French members of the Commission, went to Europe less Sunday, and on heatile demonstrative against Schmidt being renewed, the troops were surranged. General Stotypins and his staffied tham and dispected the crowd, arresting the ring. It may also be aptly compared to the moth their repulsaries with their own hands. The Cosmacks plied their whose signorously among the rioters, and even and valued garment, whose silent but industrious movements are carried on with such voracity that when the garment is put on it is to discover that it is ruined-rendered worthless, by the ravenous little insect that has been feeding upon it for months and years. In other words: The moth, like the money-lender, has lived and fattened upon the substance; while there is but the shadow left. Many years ago the bankers of Frankfort-than whom there are none more shrewd in the world-after the most careful examination into the question of the value of money as a commodity, solemnly resolved, that no business would justify the payment of more than six per cent, per annum, for the loan and use of money; and the man who paid more than that rate of interest, was laboring for his and bankruptcy. Six per cent, per annum is

is the highest ever paid on the continent. In England and France the rate of interest seldom rises above four per cent. per annum, although in the United States the rate of interest has varied in the different States according to local State laws. The rate of interest in a majority of the old thirteen States does not now, tiating a national loan of $500,000,000 at four per cent, and that that loan is being taken by the people of America with so much avidity annum is only legalizing robbery; whose citizens will sooner or later become bankrupt by the grinding process of a high rate of interest for money. When money is cheap, that is, man from other animals, for instance "a laughing and manufacturer can afford to borrow to carry on business, with a prospect of being able to pay both principal and interest in due time, out of the proceeds of their industries. The contrary is the result when money is dear, or the rate of interest is exhorbitant. modity, should be worth just what it will bring. This theory is neither sound nor sen sible. Money is in itself the motive power of rate of interest for money, in the hope of coming out all right in the end, but this hope in cessities of the debtor, and the latter struggling to get out of debt and difficulty, like a desperate gamester, risks all upon the hazzard of trade, with the usual result, failure, in a ciety. M. Hubert in his address referred to the native account of the affair contained in Kupa's continued by M. de Verieny some years large majority of cases. This reasoning is peculiarly applicable to an agricultural people like those of these islands engaged in a business that requires large capital to make it

TROPICAL FRUITS IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA .-Orange growing in California has been assuming such dimensions as to make it doubtful whether in a few years it will pay to raise the fruit, which is smaller and not so sweet as that raised here and in the Society Islands. Every land-owner and settler In the neighborhood of Los Angeles is ambitious to have an orange grove; bouses are surrounded by seeing a time when the market will be glutted with a oranges. The success in raising bananas has not been very encouraging thus far, owing to the injury with an are to grind will commend this action on the part of the President, for it is easily understood frosts. It is believed, however, that harm is to be feared from the frosts only while the banana trees are very young, and that it they can be nursed question will demand a settlement of some sort. through their infancy, they will prove bardy enough to survive. Oranges, figs, almonds, and olives, are dried or preserved in tins for export.

THE WAILURU AND KAHULUI RAILROAD.-We are credibly informed that all the materials for much chance of the Dominion of Canada get- the above new rallroad are now on the ground. The work will be done with dispatch and regular gaurantee that it will be completed much sooner than was anticipated. The two new locomotives for the Kahului and Walluku railroad, of which we made mention about two months ago, are expected to arrive any day, and thus enable the energetic head of this new improvement to push his project. We think it is fair to presume that the Kabului and Walluku railroad will not only be the first railroad on these Islands, but will be the only one for some time to come. The man who is at the head of this enterprise is one of those peculiar men looks back, and therefore we feel warranted in the LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

[Special Correspondence of the Gazette.] NEW YORK, March 15, 1879. The walking excitement has assumed most astonishing proportions. The women are bitten as badly as the men. No less than thirteen women, married and single, were last week in different parts of the country exhibiting in public their walking-limbe. and never has been, higher than six per cent. Walking powers I was about to say, but really i per annum. Indeed, at the present day, one most instances the walking is a farce. A girl walks of the most striking features of the times is till she gets tired, then another one begins, and after the fact that the United States is now nego- her another, and so on; I repeat, the only explanstion of the fact that so many men go to see these feminine failures must be that they (the feminine failures) invariably diseard their petticoats, and appear on the track in tights and short tunio. The that the Treasury Department cannot supply the daily demand for the four per cent- bonds. Two grandfathers over 70 years of BONELESS The country that allows by law a higher rate | sge; a man with a wooden leg against a man on of interest for money than six per cent. per crutches; and soldiers walking in full marching uniform, have been among the attractions. Now we are waiting for a contest between a blind man and a paralytic-we want something exciting. Various names have been proposed to distinguish when money can be borrowed at a low rate of snimal"-"a talking animal"-"a cooking animal" interest, the trader, merchant, agriculturist, etc. If a distinguishing term were required for Americans I would suggest "the advertising animal. The art of advertising has attained in this country a perfection unknows and undreamed of elsewhere No spot is mered from the descerating paste brush and poster. No matter how romantic a bit of land scape may be, if it should unfortunately contain an eligible rock you may safely bet on seeing that rock We know it is a favorite theory with some, emblasoned with come brilliantly colored piece of and especially those who have money to put effcentery announcing a wenderful corn salve, or a out at interest, that money, like any other magic finiment, or a cure-all stomach bitters, or some other miserable quack imposition. The islets in the East River are ornamented in various styles of advertising high art. The "Evening Mullygrub" for example, rears an obelisk of painted wood, fro labor; labor is the wealth of a nation; and if which it announces itself as "the very best paper in money is dear and labor scarce, and conse- New York." When it is remembered that the "Mulquently high, then the business man may, lygrub" might just as easily have said "in the and almost always is, compelled to pay a high world," the retiring modesty of that journal will be recognised at once. In the streets all sorts of advertising dodges are resorted to; from the gentle ing out all right in the end, but this hope in ninety-nine cases in a hundred is delnsive; and disappointment comes and brings with it ruin and bankruptcy, on part of the debtor.

The money-lender takes advantage of the nevertiser's name in large letters around the equator as the globe is kept constantly ravolving it of course attracts considerable notice.

Business seems to be looking up in New York as well as in other parts of the country. The stores are doing a fair share of trade, and pedestrians in the down town streets, in their efforts to dodge the num erous boxes and packages on the side-walks, are reminded of the more prosperous days before "hard times" came to stay with us.
